===== REPORT BELOW HERE =====

Introduction

Survey Data Processing

The posted surveys were heavily compressed and hard to read once added to the pdf, therefore the manually reconstructed in jupyter / matplotlib and exported.

Because of this, all values shown on the Y axis of the bar charts (X axis for horizontal bar charts) are data values.

Survey Bias

Figure X shows hows this survey has bias towards experienced players, due to the participants all b

This is due to a time period whereby a player has started playing but hasn't discovered the reddit fo beginner players will be included in these results.

Unfortunately Riot Games does not publish this data without it...

Player & User Skill

This data on the player's skills: the ratio of beginner players to professional / experienced players.

- we don't need to provide game specific knowledge in our "walkthrough" feature of our app, as only 1% of players have 1% of experience.

as shown in Figure X when most League of Legends players started playing 10 years ago, and new players have decreased since then.

Figure X shows most League of Legends players play only 1-2 games a week, with only 12% playing more than 2 hours (2 hours playtime)

Community influences: how effective a marketing strategy will be that focuses on people sharing with (or recommending to) friends (e.g., a promotion like this will be pointless).

should we prioritise building features that allow sharing into the app?

Player Exclusivity

these metrics measure how dedicated a typical player is to league of legends.

a fully dedicated player plays league of legends and no other games.

(add more metrics here) -

Figure X shows almost 50% of League of Legends players do not play any other games from Riot.

Platform Considerations

This means we will have to provide an interface that works well on these alternate platforms to cover scenarios:

For players playing on Playstation, Nintendo Switch, they might use our app through the web browser (this defaults to the desktop version of responsive websites, and so will be using the desktop interface).

For players playing on Mobile, they will use our app with the mobile interface layout.

For players playing on PC, they will use our app with the desktop interface layout.

The average League of Legend Player

Below summarizes the average League of Legend player:

- male, young, single, employed and educated.
- has been playing for 10 years or longer

- plays less than 2 hours per week

Game Health

get historic player count metrics and profits

Game Health determines if some games have drastically reduced in popularity over the last few years

As the amount of users of our application will be dependant on how many users are playing the game, the future of the game is important.

(We don't want to develop an app for a game that is about to be closed)

These metrics quantify game health (get metrics for this):

- historic profits

Despite not playing as much, people still enjoy it very much.

Figure X shows players, when players were asked how much they agreed with the statement “I enjoy playing League of Legends”, on a scale from 1-10, two thirds answered with 7 or higher. Only 4% said 1. At the same time, players enjoyed playing more than a few years ago.

Most users either enjoy it only slightly or a lot more, while the overall agreement is marginally positive. 5.2.

Monetisation Strategy to recoup the costs of the development of the project, we can monetise the completed version of the app. We will not be monetising the app, but we wanted to know if this was a viable option for the app... around 60% of players have spent more than 100 .
