Images, tables, and captioned code blocks

Pandoc Markdown has special syntax for images and tables, and their captions. For example:

Figure X: When did you start playing League / using r/leagueoflegends? - Reddit Survey 11501 Participants (#surveys)

Note how the image's `alt` text became the caption. With tables, the syntax is slightly different:

This is the caption.

Column 1	Column 2
This is some text.	This is some text.
This is some text.	This is some text.

On top of the syntax Pandoc Markdown provides, this theme supports attaching captions to code blocks by wrapping the code block in a `<figure>` tag.
